ROAD BUILDING

OIL APPLIED TO DIRT ROADS

Much Used in Illinois as Preventive of Mud as Well as Dust—Several Good Methods.

(By T. J. CROSBY.)

Many roads in the oil fields of Illinois have been treated with oil which is a preventive of mud as well as dust. Roads that were put in shape and well sprinkled with oil last fall stood the winter travel which is always heavy in the oil fields, and came out in the spring with very little needed repairs.

In applying oil to our common dirt roads several methods are employed. Sometimes where the road is in good shape the oil is sprinkled on without any further preparations. This is sufficient for summer roads and for holding down the dust, but a better method should be employed where good winter roads are expected.

First the road should be well worked with the road machine, then apply the oil with sprayer, putting on enough to well dampen the fresh worked dirt, then a disk or harrow should be used to mix the oil well with the clay; after sprinkling again, the roller is used to smooth down and pack the roads.

After this the road should be sprinkled once a month in winter to keep it from taking water.

All ruts must be filled with dirt as soon as they commence to form. Also wet down this filling with oil.

After two years of this treatment roads become solid and show but little wear from travel and rain. Well oiled roads are dustless.

Bad roads are treated the same way but require more oil to put them in shape. A common water tank with street sprinkling attachment is all that is required for applying it to the roads.

PREVENT STEEP ROAD CUTS

Difficultly Usually Experienced in Mountain or Hilly Country is in Repairing Washouts.

In a mountainous or hilly country where the roads must be built with considerable grade, one difficulty which is usually experienced in their maintenance is in repairing washouts.

When a heavy shower falls upon the road and adjoining country, water will find its way to the depressions worn by the wheels. It flows down these depressions, gaining volume and velocity as it goes until the road surface is eroded and deep ruts often formed. The road which was good in the beginning is now rough and rutty and unpleasant and even dangerous to travel over.

One of the very best methods for preventing this cutting injury E. B. House of the Colorado Agricultural College is to build across the road at intervals of two or three hundred feet ditches running entirely across the road. These ditches should be about one foot deep and perhaps three feet wide. They should be so located that they will discharge their water at some distance from the road and in such places that the water will continue on down the hill from the road.

In order that the road may be smooth, plank bridges are placed across these ditches. These are very simple affairs, 15 ft. answering the purpose for the ditches and 25 ft. or 30 ft. doing very well for the flooring. These planks should be placed so that cracks are one and one-half to two inches wide and are left between each plank. These cracks then running across the road allow the water coming down the road to go through them, into the ditch and pass away. In this way the volume of water flowing over the road surface is kept down and cutting prevented.

MAINTENANCE IS ESSENTIAL

Road Repairing as Important as Building, According to Official of Agricultural Department.

Logan W. Page, chief of the office of public roads, of the department of agriculture, is bending every energy to impress upon the people of the country that maintenance and effective repair are of equal importance with the actual improvement of bad roads. Investment of money in new roads does not become a real economy until provision is made for keeping these new roads in condition after they are built. If a new road was built and then allowed to fall into disrepair, much of the original investment is simply wasted.

Quite frequently the office of public roads, when called upon for assistance by the various states, points out that road building is an art based on a science, and that trained men and experienced men are necessary to secure the best results from the expenditure of road funds.

Statistics have figured out that although the average expenditure on the improvement of roads exceeds $1,000,000 a day, a large portion of it is wasted because of the failure to build the right type of road to meet local requirements or of the failure to provide for the continued maintenance of the improvement.

Good roads not only bring the market nearer to you but they improve the social condition of your community because they bind neighbors and friends more closely.

RAISING BEEF CATTLE

Decrease of Supply East of Missouri Is Vital Problem.

Farmers of Corn Belt Have Been Prone to Look to West and Southwest for Feeders—Situation Is Growing More Acute.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)

We quite agree with the statement by a Chicago man who has kept in close touch with the cattle owners of the country for the past 20 years that decreasing beef cattle supplies on the farms east of the Missouri river is the most vital problem facing the live stock industry today, and one which must be remedied by greater effort toward replenishment if the prosperity of the land owners is to be maintained.

Excellent Beef Type.

continued, and, too, if the beef-eating public is to secure its regular quota at prices below prohibitive levels.

The nation has in recent years drawn too heavily upon the source of fat beef output, without due regard to the future of the supply. Farmers of the corn belt have been prone to look to the west and southwest for their supplies of feeding cattle, not realizing that the increasing population is constantly calling for greater home production of fat beef.

Time has arrived when the west, a few years back the breeding ground for the corn belt feeders, is no longer able to supply feeding cattle to the farmers of Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio except at almost fat steer prices. The situation is growing more acute each year. Within the past two years the effect of home production of beef steers in the states of the middle west has been a relatively shorter supply of beef than consumptive capacity required, and the results have been higher average prices for fat steers than realized in thirty years past. But instead of general prosperity it has been prosperity for the few, because cattle raising and feeding has declined.

IMPORTANCE OF CLEAN SEED

Corn Crop of Country Has Been Increased Millions of Bushels by Good Seed Selection.

No farmer can get any one to take the same pains in grading his seed that he would himself. Some farmers claim that it does not pay to clean grain.

The corn crop of this country has been increased millions of bushels by intelligent seed selection. All other grain crops can be improved by grading the seed, so that only good, plump, healthy grains, free from all foul weed seeds may be sown.

The fanning mill, judiciously used will do much to increase the yield of every small grain crop and assist in keeping our fields free from noxious weeds.

It will take cockle out of wheat, buckhorn, plantain out of clover, in fact, it can be adjusted so as to handle all kinds of grain and weed seeds.

If you decide that it pays to sow good seed and to keep your fields free from noxious weeds, then do not hesitate to invest a few dollars in a fanning mill.

Preparation of Orchard.

As the orchard is to occupy the land for several years, the work of thoroughly preparing the soil before planting is important.

Whether the planting is to be done early or late in the season, there is no time during the whole year so opportune for effective work with the plow, subsoil plow and harrow as just after the first good fall rain. At this time the subsoil is moist, not wet, and lasting benefits result from stirring and pulverizing the subsoil to a good depth when it is in just the right condition.

Profitable Blackberry.

The Early Harvest Blackberry is very profitable this year in many localities. It always did well for us, but that does not prove that it ever will for you. Along this line a friend of ours who is a large grower of all the small fruit, particularly raspberries, says: "Cumberland is an absolute failure with me." He knows his business but lives in Marion county, located in the Black swamp region of Ohio. Soil makes the difference.

Good Storage Conditions.

The conditions most favorable to good home storage of vegetables in winter are protection from frost, cool enough to prevent rapid decay, moist enough to prevent excessive evaporation, but not moist enough to favor decay.

DAIRY

REMODELING THE DAIRY BARN

Only Reducing Feature of Prosperous Looking Barn Building Is Big Loft—Gutters Lacking.

There are many big red barns that look well from a distance and that give the farm an appearance of prosperity, but a disfigure to dairying. They have but a few small windows, no gutters, no stalls, no feeding alleys, no ventilation. Their big lofts are about the only redeeming feature they have. No wonder the boys leave the farm and find men won't talk.

Cement is not expensive and any man who is at all handy in building can put in cement gutters and walkways with a little study on the subject. Any of the cement companies advertising in the agricultural papers will send a book of instructions upon request.

Make the gutter 4 feet 10 inches from the manger for milked cows, 18 inches wide and 10 inches deep. It is not necessary to make the whole floor of cement. The forward half of the stall may be left without cement, although it is desirable to make the whole floor and manger of cement when it can be afforded.

Make a feeding alley in front of the mangers where the feeding can be done with the least work and time. Make the barn convenient. Take a day off, or a week if necessary, and visit places that have modern barns. Convenience in a barn is the cheapest part of the building and the most important. Ideas don't cost anything if you look for them. To put them into effect may take years, but it lightens the work to know they are to be. To wait until you can afford a new barn before making any improvements is folly. Fix up the old barn this fall so the work can be done here and there with less hardship this coming winter.

MILK COOLER OF CONCRETE

One Shown in Illustration Is Easily Constructed and Will Pay for Itself in Very Short Time.

The illustration shows a milk cooler that is very easily constructed by anyone and will repay its cost many times over in a season's use, says the Independent Farmer. A box form is constructed of the size you wish the outside of the cooler to be; the inside is made in the same manner, only about eight inches smaller, so as to allow for a four-inch wall to the tank or cooler on all sides. The concrete is mixed, one part Portland cement to five parts of sand and gravel, and the bottom of cooler laid first; this may be three and one-half or four inches thick, as you desire; the box form for the inside is then set upon this floor or bottom at an equal distance from the outside form on all four sides, and the concrete for the walls placed and tamped down. At one end the wall is slightly lower in center to provide for an overflow, as shown. The tank should be high enough so that when filled with water it will be within two or three inches of the top of milk can, and as the water is constantly changing the milk can be cooled in the shortest possible time; it may also be built slightly larger to allow for ice to be packed around the milk cans, when it is desired to hasten the cooling process.

FEEDING THE YOUNG CALVES

They Should Be Early Accustomed to Eating Grain, Grass and Later in Fall Alfalfa Hay.

Calves dropped in the spring and early summer should be growing nicely by the time they are in their winter quarters. They should be early accustomed to eating grain, grass, and later in the fall alfalfa or clover hay. It is poor economy to limit their supply of roughage, as it develops large frames and barrels and gives the appearance of vigor, and nothing will add this more than clean, well-grown hay.

The grain ration is necessary for steady growth. A ration that is being recommended, and one that has been found satisfactory in the north west, is a mixture of barley three parts, wheat bran one part, and alfalfa meal one part. When it can be obtained an additional one part of oil meal or soy bean meal may be used as it gives tone and flesh to the calves, which are desirable. The grain should be given in two feedings, morning and evening.

Regulate the amount of grain to the individual calf. No grain should be allowed to remain in the mangers where it will become musty, as digestion disorders will result. Ground oats and bran are valuable supplements to skim milk in a ration, as they contain a large amount of valuable substance necessary for good home

LIVE STOCK

KILLING WORMS IN HORSES

Good Plan to Keep Mixture of Equal Parts of Salt and Hardwood Ashes Before the Animals.

Horses have different kinds of worms inhabiting different parts of the intestines and requiring somewhat different treatments. There is no one specific or best treatment for worms. It is a good plan to keep a mixture of equal parts of salt and sifted hardwood ashes constantly before horses.

For the white worms six to twelve inches long, and other common worms living free in the intestines, try the following treatment: First give a mild physic, such as a pint to a quart of raw linseed oil. Feed little or no hay for three days. On the fourth day give two to three ounces, that is, from five to seven tablespoonsful, of turpentine in a pint of raw linseed oil. Repeat the same dose of turpentine and linseed oil on the fifth day, and repeat the whole process beginning on the fifteenth day from the start.

This dose is for a thousand-pound horse, and should be given about in proportion to weight. Judgment should be used concerning the condition and strength of the horse and how easily any particular horse is affected by cathartic medicines. Never give a severe physic to any horse that is thin and weak.

most of the teaming at odd times. As a combination barn for cows and horses, with a shed in one corner, the arrangement is a handy one for a small farm, says a writer in the Missouri Valley Farmer. In size the barn is 24 by 38 feet, and the driveway during the greater part of the year makes a convenient storage for wagons and farm implements. As the distance is not too great to back out with an empty wagon, there are doors at only one end of the driveway. This should make the barn warmer in winter. A space is left over the driveway for putting hay up into the mow overhead. This mow is capable of holding 15 or 20 tons of hay.

Push Immature Animals.

All immature animals should be kept gaining in weight through the winter. They may not carry their fat through; that is not always profitable; but they should carry their weight through, and more. What they lose in fat they should gain in growth, and make a profitable increase—with stores at least half a pound a day during the winter months. This does not necessarily apply to females, unless they are being grown for beef. If they are being grown for milk, it is not desirable to keep them in too high condition. Excessive fat and profligence or fruitfulness, are to some extent, at least incompatible.

Feed for Pigs.

Some pigs require more feed than others, and it is not easy to gauge the daily ration to each. One-third pound of ground corn is a good proportion, and a little bran or middlings may be added with a little oilmeal of either kind. Feeding this carefully, the feeder will soon see how much should be given at a time; no more than they will eat is a good rule. Bran and middlings are best for brood sows to farrow and a very little cornmeal, but ground oats may be added to the bran about one-third of the latter.

Shortness of Breath.

The words do not mean difficult breathing, which usually comes from some obstruction in the air passages, but a quickening of the respiratory movements, because the person who is effected feels the need of more air. There are many ways in which shortness of breath may arise. It is often one of the symptoms of illness; sometimes the illness effects the blood, so that it cannot carry oxygen enough for the needs of the body; sometimes the heart does not maintain a sufficient rapid circulation of the blood; sometimes the lungs are so wasted that they have not enough surface left to receive the air that is breathed in. In some cases the chest is deformed or undeveloped, so that the lungs suffer from mechanical obstruction.

In considering the cases where the shortness of breath is always found in connection with asthma, wheezing or chronic or temporary in character, and whether it be caused by disease or mere loss of blood. When the symptoms arise in diabetes or uraemia, it is a sign of serious blood changes that occur in those diseases.

When a person begins to complain of habitual shortness of breath, it is important to have a physical examination made without delay. One reason is that tuberculosis often begins with an other symptom than shortness of breath and a slight cough. If these cases are seen and diagnosed very early, it is not hard to arrest them.

The symptoms is, of course, present in such troubles as pneumonia, broncho pneumonia, and pleurisy, which attack the organs of breath directly. Violent exercise naturally causes temporary shortness of breath. In the case of healthy people it disappears quickly when the exercise ceases. If it does not do so, it is a good plan to have a careful examination, in order to find out what is wrong. Young people sometimes persist in a favorite form of exercise after they have begun to notice their shortening breath; in that way they may do themselves lifelong injury.

Industrial Conditions in France.

France is undergoing a true unique experience. Alas, among the nations, it is not men enough to make the abundant coal that lies beneath its soil, and French industries in consequence are seriously crippled by the shortage of fuel. A special cable dispatch to The Daily News from its Paris correspondent yesterday told how senators and representatives from the Loire district that day visited the minister of public works demanding the duty on foreign coal be removed because French coal in sufficient quantities is unavailable.

There is coal enough, say the mine owners, but men are lacking to bring it out with the requisite promptness. Importation of miners from Italy and Greece has been tried, but without entirely satisfactory results. As for varieties of endeavor, the correspondent recalls the fact that there are 100,000 Germans in Paris alone and that Germans are quietly settling in other parts of France. Thus is recalled the prediction of some publicists that the prolific German race by peaceable occupation of the country will in time secure a commanding position in the republic.

Socialists, says the correspondent, are not the lack of workers in the three great military districts, which has taken about 500,000 strong young men from fields and factories into the barracks. Very likely there is much truth in this explanation. At the same time, opponents of race suicide, who grieve because of the scarcity of French babies, are entitled to hold up shocked hands. Advocates of other reforms will recall the words of Alexandre Ribot, former premier of France, to the effect that "the French race is becoming obliterated; alcoholism, tuberculosis and the lack of adequate hygiene decimate the country." M. Ribot presented figures showing the excessively high death rate in France in support of his contention.

After all other lessons have been drawn from the French industrial predicament one gets back to the self evident truth that the morality which causes a race to be fruitful and multiply and stay alive is the morality that really counts, all accomplishments in art and culture being beside the mark.

PRESCRIPTION

For a Long Life.

This is the prescription for a long life given by an old gentleman in Connecticut, who is ninety-nine years old and still well and cheerful. "Live temperately, be slow to anger, don't worry, take plenty of exercise in the fresh air, and, above all, keep cheerful."

Should the system get run down—digestive organs weak—the blood thin and sluggish, take Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the medicine—body-building properties of cods' livers, with the useless grease eliminated and tonic iron added. We regard Vinol as one of the greatest body-builders and strength-creators in the world for aged people.

Mrs. Mary Levy, of Columbus, Ga., says: "If people only knew the good Vinol does old people, you would be unable to supply the demand; it is the finest tonic and strength-creator I ever used."

We wish every feeble old person in this vicinity would try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction.

"The Price She Paid" at the opera house tonight.

Coal haulers are getting plenty of orders these days.

Try Heinz bulk mince meat; nothing better for pies. C. M. Howard & Co.

Mrs. W. A. Wickliffe is in Cincinnati on a visit to her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Jones.

The attraction at the opera house tonight is one of the strongest plays of the season, and has drawn large audiences everywhere.

Miss Hazel Benson will return to her home in Madisonville this week, accompanied by Miss Loreen Martin, whose guest she has been for some weeks.

Mr. Leslie Hale, who recently submitted to an operation in a hospital in St. Louis, is recovering rapidly, and will soon be able to be home.

Mesdames Ella D. Boone and Herrick Johnson, of Germantown, Pa., who have been here on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Duncan, left the first of the week for the South, where they will spend some weeks at various points.

Mr. A. Y. Finley, our new farm agent for the county, has an article in this issue on the value of sorghum as stock food. It is full of good points, and should be read carefully and followed by hundreds of our farmers.

Monday was a national holiday, but was not observed here by the banks or postoffice, on account of its being county court day, and people from all parts of the county being here on business.

Mr. T. C. Baird has added an Oliver typewriter to his office equipment, and will be in better position to care for his growing business.

The crowd in town to county court last Monday was not as large as usual, on account of the weather conditions; jockey alley was a deserted section, comparatively, though it has been dwindling for some years.

The recent rains and snows have supplied plenty of water to the coal mines, which for several months have been without this necessity, and have been put to extra expense by having water shipped in car tanks.

Mr. Harry Jones, of Louisville, was here for the week-end with friends.

Mr. W. C. Duncan is in Wilmington, Del., and other eastern points on business.

Sorghum a Fine Feed for Animals.

In going over the county I find a great number of farmers who are buying hay; this ought not to be the case, for I am sure we can make hay to sell more easily than we can make money to buy it with. Now let me tell you how we can save a great deal of this hay money: just plant an acre of sorghum. It will make you more feed and better feed with the same amount of work than anything you can raise. Get about three pecks or a bushel of well cleaned seed (red top or orange is best) and after you have prepared your land well, get your corn drill, put in a plate that will plant or drop about 8 or 10 inches in a row, plant and cultivate just as you would corn; use some fertilizer to give an early start. When it comes up you will think it is too thick, but let it alone, as it will thin itself.

It is good for horses and mules; they will do reasonably good work on this with practically no grain at all. Of course you should feed some grain. It is also good for cattle, and you can carry your cattle through the winter with no other food; I have carried them through, and they would come out almost fat enough for beef, and with no other food. There is nothing better for your hens than sorghum seed; just try some and see how quickly your hens will fill your egg basket. Besides, you can raise this seed more cheaply than any other feed for your hens.

It is easy to cure, and will keep nice and sweet almost all winter; just keep standing on end, and it will be all right. Try at least a little this season.

A. Y. FINLEY, Farm Agent.

Calomel, Calomel, you cannot stay for LIV-VER-LAX has shown us an easier way. Ask G. E. Countzler.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Williams, of Daniel Boone, visited Mr. H. C. Lewis and wife the latter part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wickliffe have a fine boy, born to them yesterday morning.

Mrs. W. A. Young and Miss Ella McCracken are in Nashville, studying spring styles and buying millinery stock for the new department of Mr. W. A. Young.

People of Muhlenberg county are growing in luxuries or honesty, as we have four diamonds in the county this year, according to the assessor's list, while last year there was only one. If we increase at the same per cent. it will not be many years until we shall have some diamonds in old Muhlenberg. We have long been noted for our 'black diamonds.'

Miss Amy Longest, superintendent of county schools will leave next week for Richmond, Va., where she will attend the national meeting of school superintendents. This will be a gathering of many notables, and a meeting from which much good may be gotten, and our county will receive great benefit from the visit of Miss Longest.

Mr. A. Y. Finley, the new county agricultural man, is a very busy person these days, and is planning much for the betterment of conditions in his home county. In his work he will have the help of our people in every quarter.

Dogs Getting Gun-shy.

Chief of police Dennis has been very busy, lately, enforcing the order of the mayor that all unmuzzled dogs running at large should be killed. Up to the present he has killed about a score, and game is getting a little bit scarce, as dogs have passed the word around, and even a man with a cane or umbrella cannot get in Krag range, any more. There are yet a few hundred dogs in town which should be killed, if the owners allow them to run at large and depredate on other people, to say nothing of the danger to children. There is considerable pressure being brought to bear on the gentlemen of the city council to pass an ordinance imposing a dog tax, and to require that all dogs be prohibited from running at large at any time, and it is likely that the measure will be considered at an early date.

The sleet and ice Monday morning did considerable damage to telephone and telegraph lines, and trouble men were busy in all sections restoring order quickly, and service was soon normal again.

An Appreciation From Texas.

Waxahachie, Texas, 18 Feb. '14.
Mr. Otto A. Rothert,
Louisville, Ky.

Dear Sir:—

It has recently been my privilege to read your "History of Muhlenberg County", and I am really enthusiastic about the book. These are some of the good points noted:

1. It is a well made volume, clearly printed on good paper, abundantly and appropriately illustrated—in appearance, altogether the most attractive county history I have ever examined.
2. The style of writing is excellent. The county's story is told simply and clearly, yet with an ardor that reveals the author's deep interest in his subject and that holds the reader's attention.
3. There is a wealth of genealogical material that commands the volume to all descendants of Muhlenberg settlers.
4. The various phases of the county's history are related fully and apparently without bias. The relation of local affairs with state and national events is clearly set forth. Every chapter bears the evidence of careful research to secure authentic facts.

The book should have a wide circulation, not only in Muhlenberg County and in Kentucky, but among lovers of history every where.

Sincerely,
IRVING DABNEY GALLAWAY,
Librarian Sims Library.

We Promise You Relief from All Stomach Troubles Or Your Money Back

We honestly believe we have the best remedy in the world for indigestion and dyspepsia. We urge you to try it at our risk. If it doesn't relieve you—as we feel sure it will—we'll give back your money without a word. You know us—your family druggist. You know we wouldn't dare recommend anything we didn't know about, nor dare to break a promise. Therefore, when we recommend any remedy it is because we believe it to be better than any other to relieve the ailment for which it is made, and when we prove our faith in it and our sincerity toward you by promising to give back your money if it doesn't relieve you and in every way satisfy you, you have no possible excuse for doubt or hesitation.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

are, we honestly believe, the best remedy made for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all other Stomach Ills

We Know They're Good

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve stomach distress promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Delays Are Dangerous

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ills and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.

You Risk No Money

Our willingness to have you use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk proves our faith in them. We always sell them this way, and it is because we know that they have greatly benefited scores of sufferers to whom we have sold them. There's no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. You needn't sign anything. Your word is enough for us. We know that when they help you you will consider it money well spent even if they had cost you ten times as much. If they don't help you, the money you paid for them is yours, and we want you to have it.

Dr. Henderson's Farewell Service.

The splendid audience which gathered at the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening, in a down pour of rain was an indication of the very high esteem in which Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Henderson are held by the people of Greenville. Since this was to be Dr. Henderson's last service in our city, all the other churches dismissed their services to attend this closing service of a retiring pastor. If the weather had been favorable, doubtless every available seat would have been taken.

The other ministers were invited to occupy seats in the pulpit and participate in the devotional exercises. Bro. R. C. Love offered the invocation, Bro. G. P. Dillon read the scriptures and Bro. W. C. Hayes led in prayer. Dr. Henderson then preached one of his usually strong and interesting sermons from Gen. 50:20, which was greatly enjoyed by all present.

At the close of the sermon, Rev. G. P. Dillon, pastor of the Methodist church and Rev. R. H. Tandy, pastor of the Baptist church, spoke briefly, but strongly of the delightful fellowship which they had enjoyed with Dr. Henderson and in appreciation of the excellent work he and his wife have done during their stay in Greenville. On behalf of their congregations, they expressed deep regret that those constructive workers are to leave our city and assured them that they would carry the best wishes and prayers of a large circle of friends here to their new field.

For nearly four years Dr. Henderson has been pastor of the Presbyterian church here and his strong scholarly, scriptural and spiritual sermons have been greatly appreciated by those who have heard them, while the work of his church has been in a prosperous condition. His wise counsel and ripe experience have been of great value to his brethren in the ministry and in the Ministerial Association and the excellent traits of the highest type of a Christian gentleman, which have always characterized his actions toward his fellowmen, have won for him the very high regard of all his acquaintances.

Mrs. Henderson with her splendid culture, her optimistic nature and lovable disposition has been a great favorite among the Christian women of the city. She has been active in all forms of constructive Christian service and has ever been ready to lend her influence to relieve the burdens of others, when possible, regardless of the church to which the needy ones belonged.

We shall long cherish the most pleasant memory of these consecrated Christian workers in our midst and we wish them the largest possible success and abounding happiness in their labors upon their new field at Sylvester, Ga., to which they will go in a few days.

Local Talent Makes Good in Play.

"Down in Dixie," the play given by local talent at the opera house last Thursday night, was one of the most satisfactory entertainments that our people have seen for a long while. Every part was well played, and applause was liberal and general. The members of the band gave many pleasing selections, and between acts Mr. Bert Hudspeth gave readings and impersonations that went strong. The band boys had about $75 placed in their treasury, as the show was a benefit performance for them.

Aged Blind Woman Dies From Burns.

Mrs. Elizabeth McKee, aged 78 years, died at her home at Drakesboro early Tuesday morning, from the effects of burns which she sustained about two weeks before, when her clothing became ignited from a grate. The body was carried to Vincennes, Ind., for burial this afternoon.

Mr. J. W. Lam was in Charleston, W. Va., last week on business.

Mr. Burney Shutt took advantage of the opportunity, and with some friends made an auto trip to Central City last Sunday.

Rev. G. W. Balk will preach at the Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock Sunday, and everyone is invited to attend.

Orien L. Roark was in Louisville on business a few days last week.

Greenville high school basketball team played the Beaver Dam boys at that place last Friday night, and were defeated in a score of 23 to 12. The game was a hot one, and was witnessed by a very large crowd.

ALL TRUTH is no less dear, or more precious, today on thoughts of the past, than it was in the days of old. It has been named, beloved, and had its work to do. It has been named, beloved, and had its work to do. It has been named, beloved, and had its work to do.

CANNED SALMON.

Not all of us are able to have the fresh fish on our tables, but anybody with a small amount of money can provide it, canned, for any season of the year. If it is desired to serve salmon as a fish course, plunge the can into boiling water and let it remain for about fifteen minutes, or until well heated through. Open and turn out on a hot platter, garnish with parsley and serve with Hollandaise sauce.

Hollandaise Sauce.—Beat a half cup of butter to a cream, add slowly the yolks of three eggs and the juice of a lemon, season with a dash of cayenne and half a teaspoon of salt. Cook in a double boiler, stirring all the time until it is like a thick custard. Be careful not to overcook or the sauce will be ruined.

A very pretty way to serve salmon as a luncheon dish is to steam it in a small bread pan, mixing a half cup of crumbs, seasoning and an egg to make it mold well, unmold on a platter and surround with peas.

Another good supper or luncheon dish is this: Arrange the fish, flaked and headed in a dairy plate (having bones and skin removed) in the center of a cheap plate, or platter, surround it with potato, seasoned and put through a ricer, and around the potato a thick white sauce. Keep hot in the oven and serve piping hot. The dish may be set into a dripping pan of hot water to keep hot.

Salmon Croquettes.—Chop coarsely and finely a pound of salmon, a pound of fat, a pound of salt pork and one onion. Add a pint of raw potatoes, chopped or cut in dice, which have stood half an hour in cold water. Season and cover with boiling water, simmer for half an hour. Then add a can of salmon, drained and flaked. Two or three broken crackers and a pint of creamed milk or thin cream. One may vary the flavor by adding a chopped green pepper or a can of tomatoes.

Salmon Croquettes.—Make a custard of a pint of milk, two eggs and a teaspoonful of salt, cook in a double boiler until it thickens. Remove the oil, skin and bones from a can of salmon, flake it and add a few bread crumbs and some of the white sauce to make it easy to roll into croquettes. Dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

GOOD food on words or slight, their hiding force is measured by their housing—mischief, which, nursed and tended, bring forth poison-weeds. Whose bliter crop is hatred and remorse. W. W. Martin.

GELATINE DISHES.

The common sized packages of gelatin will make two quart jars of jelly. When recipes call for half a package it is easy to measure, as each package contains four tablespoonsful. Gelatin is a good medium for fruit juices and fruits, or a feed itself. It is not of much value, although it has proved itself a valuable adjunct, as oil is valuable in running machinery. Gelatin is a proteid server and as such should be regarded highly.

Coffee Jelly.—Soak a half box of granulated gelatin in half a cup of cold water, add a half cup of sugar, a half pint each of boiling water and strong coffee. Stir until the sugar is dissolved, add a teaspoonful of vanilla and strain through a double cheese cloth into wet molds. Serve with sweetened whipped cream or a thin custard.

Spanish Cream.—Scald three cupfuls of milk, add a half of a cup of sugar and a tablespoonful of gelatin, pour slowly on the yolks of three well beaten eggs, cook until the egg is thickened, remove from the heat and add a tablespoonful of vanilla, a fourth of a teaspoon of salt and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. Turn into small molds and chill. Serve with cream.

Lemon Jelly.—This is a jelly which may be served plain or in combination with each fruit, or eggs, prunes or dates. The jelly may be used as a salad with nuts and celery, or with bits of fresh fruit. The variety of ways of using it makes it a favorite. Take two tablespoonsful of granulated gelatin, let it soften in half a cup of cold water, dissolve in two and a half cupfuls of boiling water, strain and add a cupful of sugar and half cup of lemon juice. Turn into a mold and chill.

Nellie Maxwell.

VINEGAR FROM FRUIT PARINGS

Will Be Found Equally, If Not More, Satisfactory Than That Bought at the Store.

It is not every one who can make his own elder vinegar, and it is almost impossible to buy vinegar with the assurance that you are getting the real article; but every housekeeper in the land may have a good, wholesome vinegar by saving that which usually goes to waste.

Fruit parings of all kinds, and grape pulp make excellent vinegar. Place them in a wooden barrel or enameled vessel—never in a tin or galvanized one—and pour over them sufficient water to cover.

When they have stood for several days, and are visibly fermenting, so that the pulp easily comes to pieces, strain the liquid portion off into another clean vessel and add water sweetened with sugar, house molasses or sorghum. Tack a cloth over the opening instead of stopping tightly, so that the air can escape, and in a few months you will have a vinegar equal almost to elder.

If it seems too weak when sour, add more molasses or brown sugar. Another thing that will aid fermentation is a little cooked mush.

When the vinegar is made, it should be racked off or put into clean vessels and kept tightly closed, as any sediment will tend to cause a bitter taste. If no apple parings are used, a decided apple flavor may be imparted by adding some boiled dried apples while fermenting.

Ready for Emergencies.

A problem that confronts the suburban hostess is her ability to produce a good meal on short notice to the unexpected visitor.

True hospitality consists in welcoming your guests with cordiality and seating them to whatever menu is served the family.

By keeping a shelf in the pantry supplied with articles necessary to furnish the course which are needed for a hurry call, you can bolster up the family dinner, and fortified with these reserves, you can supplement any meat with soup, salad or cold meat, and save the nerve-racking experiences of those who find themselves confronted with unexpected guests and a deficit in the supply shelf.

This emergency shelf should always be supplied with standard soups, vegetable, a package of macaroni, a jar of cherries, olives, pickles and a bottle of salad dressing, a tumbler or two of jelly, some fruit preserves, a can of chicken, ox tongue and veal or ham loaf.

Fondue de Cheese.

Grate cheese and crush broken and dried bread crumbs into fine crumbs. Have twice as much bread as cheese. If you have two cupfuls of bread crumbs and one of cheese, use about two cupfuls of milk (in which a pinch of soda has been dissolved) to moisten the crumbs. Beat two eggs light, white and yolks separately; whip the yolks into the crumbs with a table-spoonful of melted butter. Season with salt and a dash of cayenne, add the frothed whites deftly and rapidly; bake in a greased pudding dish in a brisk oven, keeping the dish covered until the fondue is puffed high and is evenly on top. Uncover, brown slightly and serve at once. Pass crackers and pickles with this.

Baked Fillets of Halibut.

One thin slice of halibut, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Cut the fish carefully away from the central bone. This will give four strips from the slice of fish. Remove the skin, roll each portion of fish into a compact shape and fasten it with a wooden toothpick. Butter a shallow baking dish and lay the fish in it. Season and squeeze lemon juice over each roll. Cover with greased paper and bake 15 minutes. Serve preferably on individual plates, having the fish covered completely with Hollandaise sauce and garnished with parsley, cut lemon and shoestring potatoes.

German Peach Pie.

A German pie of peaches, the crust made like a rich baking powder biscuit, furnishes an excellent dessert. Make the dough and roll out in sheets to fit a long biscuit tin. It should not be more than half an inch thick. Brush the top with butter and cover with slices of peaches arranged in symmetrical overlapping rows or halved peaches rounded side up. Sprinkle generously with sugar, cover with another tin and bake from 20 to 25 minutes.

The idea is to cook the fruit, but not reduce it to a pulp.—Emma Pad dock Telford.

Cream Salad Dressing.

Beat the yolks of three eggs until thick and creamy and lemon colored. Add two teaspoons of sugar mixed with one-half teaspoon of salt, the same of mustard and a speck of cayenne pepper. Pour over this one-half cup of hot vinegar in which a teaspoon of butter has been melted. One-quarter of a cup of lemon juice and one-quarter of a cup of boiling water may be used instead of vinegar. If desired, if it is not thick enough it may be cooked, then chilled. Just before serving add whipped cream.

Handy Tester.

If you have an electric flatiron, make a little metal stand that will hold the iron in place when standing upside down. The hot ironing surface can then be used, when the current is turned on, for a number of purposes, such as toasting marshmallows, frying an egg or heating water.

BARGAINS IN FROCKS

THIS SEASON AN EXCELLENT TIME TO PURCHASE.

Wardrobe May Be Replenished for This or the Next Winter at Comparatively Small Cost—Coat and Skirt Costumes.

DE MARY DEAN. Now is the time for leisurely and appreciative shopping. Genuine bargains are to be found in all of the better shops, and if any money has been saved from the Christmas buying it may now be invested to advantage.

There are still at least two months of winter weather to be faced, and there is another winter coming, though it lies beyond a distant summer. If one buys wisely, winter bargains in furs and frocks and coats picked up now will give comfort and satisfaction until spring and will come in most conveniently at the opening of another cold season. Naturally one must not buy the extreme or freakish models if one counts on wearing them another season.

In some of the shops the prices of high-class winter coat and skirt costumes are cut in half so that room may be made for the coming spring goods, and the old stock may be cleared out. When such sales occur, one may obtain for $25 or $35 a coat and skirt costume which sold early in the season for from $45 to $65.

In velvet costumes and frocks the reductions are still more sweeping. This winter's lines are so individual and in many cases so extreme that holding winter models over to another season would be a hazardous business proposition for the merchants. Yet hesitate to buy exclusively winter models for the same reason that prices must be made low enough to tempt customers into buying for the three cold weather months remaining. Both in the small shops and the large department shops excellent bargains in velvet, velveteen and corduroy are offered, and in fur-trimmed garments as well.

Winter coats are quoted at prices which, in some instances, seem absurdly low, and the leftover hats are much reduced in price. But there are few desirable things among them, and a hat made to order costs as much as it would have cost two months ago.

This last statement does not apply to frocks. A number of the smart tailors and dressmaking departments of many of the shops offer tempting rates at this season of the year. The south-bound crowd does not by any means furnish enough orders to keep the dressmakers busy between winter and spring seasons, so reduced prices for work are announced.

FANCIES OF FASHION

Muffs are quite large or of medium size. The butterfly bow in millinery holds its own.

There is an absence of revers on the new coats.

There are many black moire hats trimmed with skunk.

Corduroy makes stylish gowns for dressy morning wear.

Scotch plaid silk is used to trim coats and frocks for little girls.

Jet is a favorite trimming for afternoon and evening costumes.

For the little girl there are little broods of Scotch plaid velvet.

Long loose coats of plain or ribbed velvet are being much worn.

New Waistcoat Waists.

Reports from Paris tell of satin waistcoat waists; that is to say satin waists the body of which is cut in the form of a man's waistcoat with two points in front below the waist and a belt behind. The sleeves are of contrasting color.

Quite as attractive as these satin waists are the velvet waistcoats that are worn over white net waists.

These waistcoats are made of striped velvet, and are cut exactly on the fashion of a man's waistcoat. One is made of white velvet, with stripes of pale green and pale violet.
